

Child Care Professionals and SaferProducts.gov

Child care professionals are in a unique position to learn about and report safety problems with children's consumer products.

Child care professionals use products all day while caring for children. Any safety problems you become aware of with products can be reported at SaferProducts.gov. Alert CPSC and others about your concerns.

It's Quick and Easy!

- ▶ Make informed purchases for your child care business by reviewing product safety reports at SaferProducts.gov.
- ▶ By learning what problems other people have reported with children's products and reading what the manufacturer has to say about the product, you will have more information on which to base your purchasing decisions.

CPSC Can Act

Children's products and toys are a large part of CPSC's investigations and recalls. The more information CPSC receives from child care providers like you, the easier it is for the agency to move forward to protect the public from unreasonable risks of injuries or death associated with consumer products.

Connect with CPSC!

You can file reports about incidents involving a consumer product causing or potentially causing an injury. To report incidents to CPSC, log on to: www.SaferProducts.gov.

SaferProducts.gov is CPSC's new website that collects reports from consumers and other submitters about safety incidents with consumer products. The information you share about an incident helps CPSC identify unsafe products and can help other consumers, too.

See Reports Submitted by Others

- ▶ Stay informed!
- ▶ Use SaferProducts.gov to search for incidents with specific products.
- ▶ View a manufacturer's comments about a report.
- ▶ Use all of this information to decide how to best protect your family and your home.

CPSC Can Act

Help CPSC work to keep consumers safe!

The information you provide about incidents at SaferProducts.gov can help CPSC with its job of protecting the public from unreasonable risks of injuries or death associated with consumer products.

For years, reports of incidents have led to product recalls. With SaferProducts.gov, CPSC will be able to act faster than ever before to keep consumers safe.
